Re: Operation "DragonFly"

SITUATION

SUMMARY

Two days ago the 127 Republican Wing Squadron, an elite squadron of T0-199 bombers touched down at Stratis Airbase. It seems they are there to stay. 13th MEU is scheduled to assault Stratis in three days. This can only happen when those T0-199's have been disposed off. SatNav has been monitoring the Supply Depot at Agia Marina. There's been a buildup of material and equipment the last few days. We need visual confirmation on what's going on at the supply depot.

INTEL ON ENEMY FORCES

The entire island of Stratis is basically a CSAT military stronghold with only a few civilians in Agia Marina. The Stratis Airbase is used as a hub for both Altis and Stratis. Intel shows that the base is well guarded and active 24x7 (air/land/sea). We estimate a full Infantry brigade at the Stratis Airbase plus air support units, naval support units and various air squadrons. Stratis has several bases/military outposts that should be avoided if possible. The supply depot at Agia Marina is moderately secured by CSAT infantry.

NATO FORCES

Three troops:

One command troop - SSC, marksman, squadron paramedic and a recon/UAV specialist.
Two assault troops (AT) - Troop Leader and 4 Assault Specialists.

There are no other operations on Stratis that we are aware off.
